✓ - Dunaway 50 ... NB Suez near SB, where tradition says a man was left by his companions to die, in compliance w/ his own request. His fellows' trousers were up to his knees, & knowing that he could live, he begged them to abandon him to save their own lives. A party, when crossing the bluffs some afterwards, found the bones - some dist of the place where the misfort' had last been seen.

~~✓ Bayard 52 ... They took their names of fog etc: a party of men set to state, provisions exhausted. One of the best was taken sick, & begged them to leave him & take care of themselves. They did so. Afterward a dilemma he found supp to be Scott's~~

✓ Tompson 50 ... one of a co of fur traders who abandoned him at the place where sick & unable to assist himself. Here he died far far away from home & perished soon by fiendish savages & all the wild romance of capricious nature's fanciful freaks. O it was a wild & lonely, & a desolate place in which to die ... (see KR)

X McCoy 49 ... This loc., where bluffs crowd toward river, is a SB, / the fact that a trader of that name was des. of his companions, who left him up to arms & supplies in their eagerness to catch up w/ a party ahead. His skeleton was found later nearly 40 mi from where he was des. he had some shifts & made his way hither until he had done up a supply. It was a relief to find of that of what misery he had endured to complete the journey. A copy of it can be seen in this mimic city any the collection of the desert
